01 / BRAND FOUNDATION

What the brand means

Ten80Ten should feel like a calm operating advantage: the business owner keeps strategic control while trained remote talent removes the recurring operational load.

Empower your core

Delegate the chore

POSITIONING

Premium operational support for growing teams. Ten80Ten recruits and manages specialized virtual assistants and remote contractors so founders and teams can refocus on revenue, relationships, and strategic work.

AUDIENCE

Business owners, founders, operators, real estate teams, professional services, and growing companies that need reliable execution without adding operational complexity.

Brand principles

Clarity

Make delegation feel simple, not risky.

Capacity

Show the time and headspace being returned.

Trust

Lead with screening, onboarding, and management.

Momentum

Frame support as growth infrastructure.

02 / LOGO SYSTEM

Two approved logos

The brand uses a complete lockup and a standalone hourglass mark. The lockup identifies the company; the mark carries the symbol when space is tight or brand recognition is already established.

PRIMARY LOCKUP

Use when the audience may not know the brand yet.
Best for website headers, cover images, proposals, PDFs, email signatures, and sales collateral.

STANDALONE MARK

Use for avatars, app icons, favicons, watermarks, badges, and repeat brand moments.

LOGO TYPOGRAPHY

The TEN 80 TEN lettering is custom logo artwork. It should not be rebuilt by typing the name in a font. The segmented, beveled, square-industrial letterforms belong only inside the supplied logo file.

Clear space and scale

CLEAR SPACE

Keep at least one width of the silver core triangle around the logo on all sides. Never crowd it with text, icons, partner logos, or UI controls.

MINIMUM SIZE

Lockup: 34 mm wide minimum in print. Mark: 12 mm wide minimum. For avatars, use the mark only.

03 / LOGO ANATOMY

The hourglass story

The mark should be explained as an hourglass of focus: work enters, pressure narrows, support transfers the load, and the client keeps the core of the business protected.

Symbol shown on a controlled dark field for full contrast

01 / TOP APERTURE

Orange entry point signals action, urgency, and the incoming flow of work.

02 / DIAGONAL TRANSFER

The crossing spine reads as handoff: effort moves from the client's team into capable support.

03 / LOWER BASE

Gold foundation suggests capacity, stability, and work completed with control.

04 / SILVER CORE

The central triangle is the protected core: the client stays focused on what only they can do.

05 / NEGATIVE SPACE

The open hourglass is time restored. It creates air, speed, and a sense of uncluttered systems.

04 / COLOR SYSTEM

Warm, premium, legible

The palette comes from the mark: hot orange for activation, muted gold for dependable execution, charcoal for control, cream for breathing room, and silver for the protected core.

Usage ratio

COLOR RULES

- Use cream and white as the default environment; the brand should not feel heavy.
- Reserve charcoal for logo staging, headers, buttons, and high-contrast moments.
- Use orange sparingly as an action color; it should guide the eye, not flood the page.
- Gold is the bridge color for stability, trust, and section dividers.

05 / TYPOGRAPHY

How the brand speaks visually

The logo lettering and the working brand typography are separate. The lockup is artwork; everyday content needs a dependable, editable font system.

LOGO WORDMARK

Custom logo wordmark

The TEN 80 TEN letters are beveled, segmented, and customized. Treat them as a finished logo asset, not as a font to reproduce.

06 / VOICE

CMO messaging rules

The voice should make delegation feel safe, strategic, and immediately useful. It should never sound like bargain labor or generic outsourcing.

CORE BRAND LINE

Empower your core, delegate the chore.

Messaging pillars

Time back

Remove the busywork that slows leadership down.

Ready support

Talent that arrives with useful experience and clear onboarding.

Managed fit

Screening, onboarding, and monitoring so clients can trust the handoff.

Scale without drag

Add execution capacity without adding chaos.

Global reach

Operational calm

Cleaner systems, faster follow-up, and steadier momentum.

COPY STANDARDS

Say: time back, trusted support, smoother execution, build smarter support, reclaim your day, ready on day one.

Avoid: cheap labor, disposable help, vague outsourcing, overpromising, jargon, or anything that makes support feel low-value.

07 / APPLICATIONS

Digital and social direction

Brand applications should feel calm, clean, and useful. The goal is not to decorate; the goal is to make operational relief feel credible and easy to act on.

SOCIAL POST STRUCTURE

Less noise.
More focus.

Delegate the tasks slowing your day.

START HIRING

Use one clear idea per post: pain point, relief, proof, CTA. Keep the logo mark small and consistent.

LANDING SECTION PATTERN

Empower your core

Your secret weapon for finding top global talent.

LEARN MORE

START HIRING

Use a short hero promise, one sentence of context, then two clear actions. Keep black as a controlled contrast, not a background flood.

Art direction checklist

PHOTOGRAPHY

Professional, optimistic, real work environments, people using laptops or collaborating. Avoid stock images that feel staged or overly corporate.

SOCIAL AVATARS

Use the standalone mark on a charcoal or controlled dark field. Do not squeeze the full lockup into tiny square avatars.

GRAPHICS

Use diagonal accents, hourglass triangles, rounded cards, and simple arrows. Do not add random gradients, glitter, or extra effects to the logo.

CTA SYSTEM

Primary CTA: Start Hiring. Secondary CTA: Learn More, Hire a VA, Let's Talk. Keep buttons simple and high-contrast.
